INDORE: Women have a lion's share on the "ballot-ground" and their vote is crucial for a candidate's victory. For Indore's women, skyrocketing inflation and spate of crime against women are issues that will guide their vote. TOI speaks to a cross-section of women and gives an insight into issues that matter. Usha Krishnan, principal, Old Government Degree College, feels giving scholarships to girls has not benefited them much. The government must create job opportunities to bring them on equal footing, she said.

Every woman must vote as we form a large electoral segment. Women must keep in mind both local and national issues. Inflation, corruption and women's security are key issues.

Divya Gupta, social activist

Rising prices have hit our budgets. For women, small things matter the most and they are the one who manage the household. Family is our priority and inflation has hit us hard. The government should make us believe that our daughter will be safe.

Providing infrastructure in industrial areas is the need of the hour for young entrepreneurs. There is acute water scarcity and power cuts at Pithampur. The young entrepreneur is in a growing stage and any party which comes into power should give us facilities.

Preeti Jain, housewife

Be it LPG, petrol, diesel or vegetables, price rise has hit the household budget. We don't believe the government will curb inflation. Right to reject is also a useful option for all.
