A symposium celebrating the centennial of women’s suffrage is scheduled for Thursday, October 25, from 3 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. in Knight Library’s Browsing Room on the UO campus.

From 3 p.m. to 4 p.m., a panel will address the question “How Have Women Changed Politics?” Panel members include:

- April Haynes, Assistant Professor, UO Department of History
- Priscilla Yamin, Assistant Professor, UO Department of Political Science
- Margaret Hallock, Director, Wayne Morse Center for Law and Politics
- Kitty Piercy, Mayor of Eugene

At 4 p.m., Lauren Kessler will deliver a keynote address entitled “Perseverance.” Kessler is a UO journalism professor and director of the UO’s multimedia journalism master’s degree program. She is the author of six works of narrative nonfiction and the founder of online magazine Etude. Her website is <http://laurenkessler.com/>.

A reception will follow Kessler’s talk.

The symposium is facilitated by Linda Long, manuscripts librarian at the UO Libraries.

Sponsors for the event include the UO Libraries, Oregon Humanities Center, the Center for the Study of Women in Society.
