IT must be time for a Royle celebration in Jessica Hynes' household as her sitcom Up The Women has been given a second series.

The BBC2 comedy about a group of women in 1910 who form a Women's Suffrage movement is written by and stars Jessica Hynes and features Rebecca Front.

Made by BBC In-House Comedy and Baby Cow Productions, Jessica said of the news: "I am very pleased that the Banbury Intricate Craft Circle Politely Request Women's Suffrage, BICCPRWS, will continue to convene on the British Broadcasting Corporation.

"Our members are thrilled and our passion for social change through militancy burns brighter than ever.

"We are composing an incendiary pamphlet and designing our very own BICCPRWS egg cosies to celebrate this momentous occasion. Up The Women!"

The show also stars Gavin & Stacey's Adrian Scarborough, Angus, Thongs And Perfect Snogging star Georgia Groome, After You've Gone actor Ryan Sampson and Hotel Babylon actress Emma Pierson.

BBC2 controller Janice Hadlow said: "I'm delighted to welcome the Banbury Intricate Craft Circle to BBC2.

"With brilliant writing from Jessica Hynes and a fabulous cast including Rebecca Front, Judy Parfitt and Adrian Scarborough, Up The Women is a wonderful addition to comedy on the channel."
