Today we remember...

Theresa Schmidt

In honor of the victims of the Triangle Shirtwaist Factory Fire and the launch of our Triangle Fire Memorial Design Competition, in the days leading up to the week of announcement of the final design winner, we will remember each of the 146 men and women that died in the fire. Please consider donating to the memorial fund and entering the competition.

Centennial 1911-2011

In concert with individuals and participating organizations across the country, the Remember the Triangle Fire Coalition supported the creation of commemorative events — activism, education, art — for the historic 2011 Centennial.

Our Mission

All are welcome! Become a Participating Organization, Sponsor, or volunteer today!

The Remember the Triangle Fire Coalition educates the public about the Triangle Shirtwaist Factory fire through its on-going projects, educational outreach, and social media sites. It supports the annual remembrance activities on the anniversary of the fire each March 25, and encourages activism by and for workers around the world. To that end, the Remember the Triangle Fire Coalition is currently working to establish a permanent art memorial to those who died in the fire, so that their sacrifice will never be forgotten.
